SECTION II: READING

Instructions:

In this section of the test, you will read some texts, and you will have to answer questions about them. Choose the alternative by selecting the correct answer (a, b, c, or d).

Text 1

According to many scientific magazines, there are many reasons for older people to learn something new. In addition to this, diseases can be prevented since it keeps your mind active, so that everyone would be healthy. Furthermore, it is claimed that it helps boost self-esteem, especially in elders.

One of the most important reasons for learning new things from a youthful age to prevent senile dementia. It's been observed that the cause of people suffering the illness is because they are not often involved in activities that let them expand their thinking capacity or when they do not socialize anymore.

Among the activities that could help elders prevent or minimize the effects of dementia are drawing, photography, cooking, painting, playing sudoku or completing crosswords, and much more, but even more important, being acquainted with recent technologies is what can help them significantly. Furthermore, they can be strengthened with a series of healthy and nutritious diets and physical activities.

The learning process tends to decay when you turn twelve due to specific chemical alterations in your brain as puberty appears. Then when you are thirty, the structure of the brain hardens. That is why it is harder to learn as you grow up. Suffice it to say, all this poses a challenge, but they might get it if they intend to do it Undoubtedly, it has been proved that the advantages of keeping the learning process active after turning fifty markedly outweigh the drawbacks. If may venture a guess, I'd say that it is not about the chances you have to study or the belief you are too old; it is about self-determination. Bear in mind this. It's better late than never

21. After reading the text, what can be inferred?

- Readers might follow some of the suggestions in their personal lives. ✓
- Readers will be willing to take some photography courses in the future.
- Readers might not feel satisfied with the info provided
- Readers will feel motivated to study or take a course.

22. According to the text, ...

- It's essential to prevent diseases after turning fifty.
- Continuing learning after turning fifty is an effective way to strengthen self-regard. ✓
- Being healthy is the most important aspect of everyone's life.
- Magazines are a useful tool to boost elders' learning.

23. Which statement is not supported by the writer?

- Dementia is caused by not being able to study after the fifties. ✓
- Illnesses can be avoided when people do several activities to keep their body and mind active.
- Dementia can also happen elders stop interacting with others.
- A balanced diet can help prevent illnesses.

24. What's the main objective of this text?

- To point out the most essential thoughts to keep on learning after the fifties.
- To exemplify a wide range of activities elderly people can learn to keep their minds active.
- To remark that it is never late to learn something.
- To draw people's attention to the importance of learning, and its benefits by the time you are fifty. ✓

25. It can be concluded that the author thinks that...

- People are obliged to learn something once they reach the age of fiftys.
- Emotional support for the elderly is essential to prevent senile dementia
- Having a nutritious diet, learning new things and socializing are the fundamental aspects to prevent senile dementia. ✓
- People are doomed to suffer from senile dementia after the age of fiftys.

Text 2: Biography

Ronald Karp (1980-2000) was an American actor. He was born in Kansas City, Missouri. He studied at Park Hill High School and lived with his parents and his young sister until 2000. In the early years, there was some sort of sibling rivalry but then everything was hunky-dory. Ronald trained as a dancer from an early age, his favorite dance style was breakdancing. He was unflagging in his efforts; that is how then he landed a job in acting. His first appearance in a film was in a horror movie called "Mirrors", where he played the nephew of the lead. But the role that would lead him to fame appeared in 1996 In September of that year, he was cast in the starring role of Jean Road on the Hulu drama series "Brooklyn". All the actors hit it off immediately.

Three years later, he got another leading role at Paramount, but now in a movie. He became one of the main cast members of Descendants, playing Robert, the son of Kendra. He later reprised the character for the sequels and a spin-off. Ronald Karp died in 2000 due to an epileptic seizure. When he passed away, his family started a foundation named after him. This foundation will provide kids with a few resources the necessary help to get into the performing arts.

Text 3: The role of technology

It is believed that technology is one of the most powerful, versatile, and noticeable resources tools through which we are able to deal with tough things from different work studies medicine and many other areas. Some people claim that it results from a long cultural and scientific evolution, which has undoubtedly revolutionized humans lives.

One dear advantage is that technology gives people the chance of doing certain things that can be too hard for their brains to get in a fleeting time. Another major positive aspect is that it helps everyone to communicate with each other more easily and faster. In fact, people are now able to share their anecdotes with others from vaned countries around the world On the other hand over the years technology has become a general pitfall for all of us, since not everyone uses this perk for good purposes. Should that be the case they use it to view or create sites that are detrimental for the younger generations or for everyone, or sadly to make harmful comments on social networks.

After all there is no denying that to use technology we must be incredibly careful since it will not always be on our side. Notwithstanding benefits, there are those who argue it can be an opportunity to harm ourselves or the people we love. Technology is at your fingertips. What you must do is just study, entertain or work at your own pace and everything will be hunky-dory. Now that we are living in a highly technological world, we must be ready to face all the challenges it embraces. As a student I may convey that technology opens doors and windows to limitless learning. For instance, my sister is tackling a new type of learning experience, she is a zoomer while her classmates are roomers and they interact as if they were in one learning space even though she is at home and her peers are at school. Technology is here to stay and remember this, it is only limited by your imagination.

31. The writer suggests that...

- ☒ social networking is the perfect site to make baleful remarks. ✓
- ☐ younger generations are in danger because of their peers' opinions.
- ☐ technology is used only for good purposes.
- ☐ it is hard to criticize how people acquire knowledge.

32. Supporters of technology state that...

- ☐ it is in opposition to ecological surroundings.
- ☐ it threatens the quality of life
- ☐ it ensues from beliefs that are passed from generation to generation. ✓
- ☒ it only affects a small section of society.

33. Which of the following views does the writer express about the bonuses of technology?

- ☐ It endangers the lives of children and animals.
- ☐ You can use it hardly ever.
- ☒ It makes something shorter in time. ✓
- ☐ It spoils opportunities to grow.

34. Which word implies a kind of difficulty dealing with something in paragraph 1?

- ☒ tough
- ☐ versatile
- ☐ evolution
- ☐ powerful

35. According to the text, ....

- ☐ technology is a hidden evil among good things
- ☒ technology is here to stay and we must get used to it. ✓
- ☐ technology is controlled by beings superior to us
- ☐ technology must be supervised in teenagers

Text 4

As most of you know, getting a job these days has been tough and for some people was like a nightmare. Fortunately, got a new job! It was not rocket science!! must acknowledge that was completely afraid of applying and that was the main reason why hadn't got one much earlier. In this opportunity, would like to tell you about my new job and how wonderful this experience has been! Well, first I must take the train to go to work, which is more comfortable than going by bus. One of the greatest things about this job is that am able to get there till 9 o'clock, an hour later than my last one. I have begun to get up calmly and enjoy breakfast so far.

Another wonderful thing about this is the building, which is considered the most amazing and biggest one in the city. Unbelievably, it has its heliport on the rooftop which has recently been built. Don't you think that is astonishing?

This company has applied proper technology in all of its processes. The laptop they assigned me is better and faster than my last one. Also, the ERP is more modern than the one in my last job. The most useful aspect of this ERP is the connection with a platform called Lumira, where you can develop incredible reports online

One thing that I enjoy about this new company is that we can have small meetings with any department because we can use a communication tool called "Teams". I believe that those small meetings are more efficient than large ones.

This company has expanded so fast in the last three years, mainly because they have paid a lot of special attention to customer service and customer experience something that did not happen in my former workplace.

Finally, this job is better paid than my last dead-end job, and thus encompasses better social benefits. The point is to do a bang-up job. I wish my friend Danna were here I am sure she would be able to get through the glass ceiling since it is a dog-eat-dog environment. A hatchet man would have no space here. think that the only thing that am not comfortable with is the distance from my house, this job location is further than my last one. A two-hour commute is killing me Also, I will miss my friend from my last job, but we are going to be in touch. As we used to say, a friend in need is a friend indeed.

I am extremely excited about this new opportunity, and will do my best to achieve the new challenges.

36. According to the text, what is special about the building?

- ☐ It has a place where a means of transport takes off and lands.
- ☐ It has a special environment for dogs.
- ☐ It has a room exclusively for brick-and-mortar meetings.
- ☐ It is superannuated.

37. Which is not true about the reading passage?

- ☐ ERP embraces sundry unauthorized functions.
- ☐ Lumira is the new company's manager.
- ☐ The present devices have become outmoded.
- ☐ Staff can communicate through Teams and Zoom.

38. Why couldn't the author be hired before?

- ☐ He was upbeat regarding applying for a new job.
- ☐ He felt apprehensive about being employed.

- He felt cheery to get the job.
- He neglected the application process.

39. What's the main objective of this text?

- To bragging to your friends about his new job
- To compare his new job with his old one
- To report the reasons for quitting his old job
- To decide which job to stay in

40. After reading the text, what can be inferred?

- Readers should look for a new job and leave their current one
- Readers should never be afraid to apply for a new job.
- Readers should take advantage of the job opportunities they get
- Readers should not be afraid to look for new job opportunities
